'She will be sorely missed'

Excessive speed by other driver likely factor in wreck that kills Lawrenceburg woman

Morgan Hellard was killed last Wednesday afternoon on Versailles Road.

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

One needed only to drive past the funeral home Sunday afternoon to understand the level of grief that gripped Lawrenceburg following last Wednesday's fatal collision that killed two women on Versailles Road.

Ritchie-Peach Funeral Home was literally stuffed with those mourning the loss of Morgan Hellard, 23, an aspiring pharmacy student described by those who knew and loved her as a wonderful young mother who was just an "all-around good girl."

"She was just absolutely precious," her aunt Marie Hellard said Monday morning as she and other family members continued to deal with their sudden loss.

"She was her [mother's] soul-mate, and that's the truth, and was the light of her parents' life. She was an only child, and was the apple of their eye."

"She never caused her parents a minute of trouble, and she will be sorely, sorely missed."

Morgan Hellard, a 2006 graduate of Anderson County High School, and Vicki Fackson, 49, of Versailles were both pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, which occurred just after 3 p.m. last Wednesday near the intersection of Versailles and Lock roads.

As of Tuesday, the accident remained under investigation, but the Kentucky State Police have determined that Fackson apparently crossed the center line and struck Hellard's vehicle head-on.

Anderson County Coroner Dr. Mark Tussey said the results of toxicology reports are pending, but it does appear that excessive speed on the part of Fackson was a Former county clerk dies

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

He was Anderson County's clerk, and so much more.

Julian Birdwhistell, 88, died Monday at Frankfort Regional Medical Center and is being remembered as a "fine, Christian man" who spent his life giving to others and the community that adored him.

"He was a really good man, and I loved him," said Rosalie Yocum, who served as Birdwhistell's chief deputy in the county clerk's office. "Everyone knew him and the vast majority liked him."

News of Birdwhistell's death spread quickly around Lawrenceburg on Monday, taking people by surprise, including current County Clerk Jason Denny.

Taxpayers better served when elected control rates

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

An examination of property tax rates since 2000 shows a stark contrast of rates set by those who are elected and those who are not.

Predictably, those not elected are much quicker to raise tax rates at a pace not even those in Washington, D.C., could possibly fathom.

As the attached chart shows, the fiscal court and school board have raised rates at an average of about 1 percent a year. Surprisingly, the city council and state rates have dropped considerably during the same period. When combined, the average rate increase from 2000-12 is just over one half of 1 percent.

Keep that number in mind. What they all have in common is that from the school board to the governor's office, each person responsible for setting tax rates at some point must face the voters who put him or her in that position.

That's not the case for the health, library and fire taxing districts in Anderson County,

Dinner with Deputies Nov. 18 to benefit Shop With a Cop

From staff reports

A deputy serving a search warrant or other legal documents? Happens all the time. But a plate of barbecue, slaw and beans? Happens once a year.

For the second consecutive year deputies with the Anderson County Sheriff's Office will wait on tables Friday, Nov. 18 at Tony's BBQ Barn, located at 1435 US 127 Bypass, just north of the intersection of Highway 151. Tips collected by the deputies will go toward the department's annual Shop

With a Cop program, which provides Christmas gifts for underprivileged children.

The annual Dinner With the Deputies dinner was a smash success, and raised more than $2,000 for Shop With a Cop. But don't worry about a reservation. Tony's BBQ Barn owner Tony Howard said the full buffet line will be open and plenty of seats will be available.

Donations are tax deductible, and checks should be made to Anderson County DARE, with Shop With a Cop in the memo line.

Julian Birdwhistell, who served as county clerk for 18 years, displays new Kentucky license plates in November 1975.

CLERK

"I just saw him last Tuesday when he voted at the middle school," Denny said. "This is a great loss to our community. He was a good man, I'll tell you that. He was a great gentleman."

Birdwhistell took office as county clerk in 1973 after serving as deputy clerk from 1970-73. He served as clerk until 1989, when he stepped down after being stricken with cancer.

But his service as clerk only scratches the surface of his dedication to the community and his church.

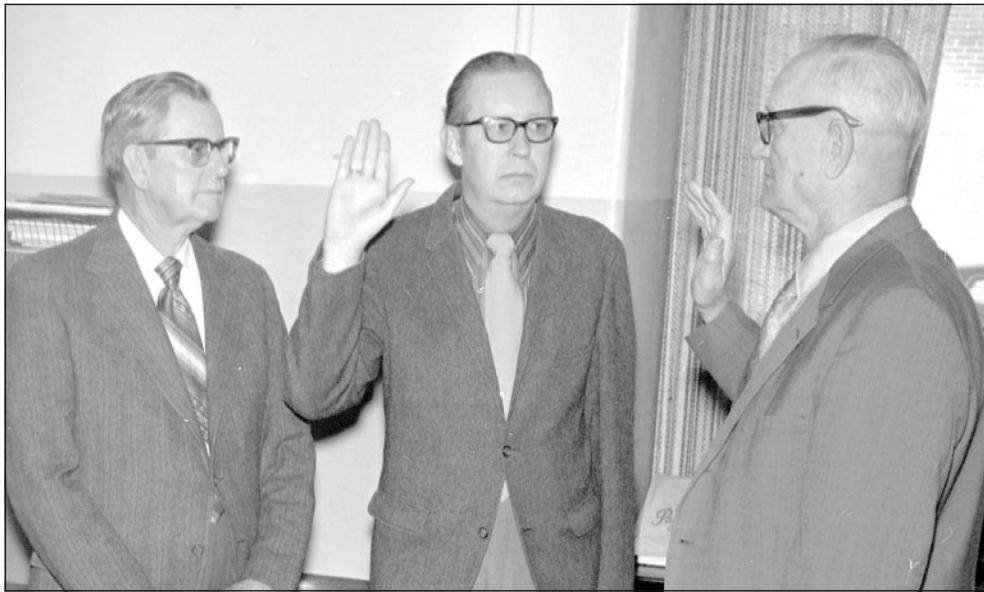

A veteran of the US Army during World War II, Birdwhistell joined Sand Spring Baptist Church in 1934 and served as a deacon from 1954-2006, when he was named deacon emeritus.

He joined Gideon's International in 1978, and went on to form a Gideon group in Anderson County in 1992.

His civic service is likely unmatched in Lawrenceburg, having served in numerous leadership roles for the Stringtown Ruritan Club, American Legion Post 34, VFW Post 3075, DAV Post 54 and Anderson Masonic Lodge Post 90.

He also served as chairman of the United Way and president of the local Red Cross chapter.

In 1988, Birdwhistell was named the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce's Citizen of the Year, and in 1990 he was given the meritorious service award during Anderson County Farm City Day.

Julian Birdwhistell, center, is sworn in as Anderson County Clerk by Judge-Executive Hollie Warford, after John Willie Carlton, left, resigns in October.

In 1988, he was the recipient of a special resolution presented by former Anderson County Judge-Executive Jim Catlett and members of the fiscal court.

Professionally, he was the co-owner of the Stringtown Market for 20 years, and also served as commissioner of the Stringtown Water District.

His death Monday quickly reverberated across Anderson County, when those who knew him remembered him as a great man.

"He was like my mentor," said Jennifer Gay, who began working in the clerk's office in 1983 and still works there today.

"Before speaking with you, I looked up the definition of mentor and it means a wise and trusted counselor. That's what he was to me.

"He would give you so much advice, and he always had a smile on his face."

Asked if she could recall something about Birdwhistell that others might not know, Gay related the following story.

"He would probably fuss at me for saying this, but as [US Sen.] Mitch McConnell became more noted, we always teased Julian and said they looked like each other," Gay said. "I would say they looked like brothers, and he would just laugh and say, 'Yeah, but he's more into politics than I ever would be.'"

Not that Birdwhistell ever struggled to retain his office at election time during his 18 years at the helm.

"Julian was very dedicated and a conscientious clerk," said Yocum. "He didn't have any trouble being re-elected every time he ran."

Denny, who was elected county clerk following the sudden death of former clerk Harold Ritchey, said Birdwhistell was a great resource he relied on to learn about the job.

"He would stop by the office and see how things were going," Denny said. "I have spoken with him many times about the history of the clerk's office."

"I just spoke with him within the past month."

Funeral services for Birdwhistell were still pending as of Tuesday morning, but are to be scheduled at the Ritchie & Peach Funeral Home.

Birdwhistell is survived by his children, David M. Birdwhistell and his wife, Beverly, of Lexington, and Alice Kay Birdwhistell of Raleigh, NC.

TAX RATES

which operate with naked impunity when it comes to answering to taxpayers.

Take a quick look at their bottom lines. The health district, which has drawn the ire of taxpayers for its decision to construct a new building two years ago but is now going broke, has raised its rates 43 percent.

Next is the fire board, which is up 89 percent but with the notable caveat that it receives only property taxes outside of the city, and has not benefited anywhere near as greatly from the county's previous decades of rapid growth.

Then there's the library board, which is discussing spending millions on an addition to the building it spent millions to build just a few years ago. It's by far the worst, clocking in with an inexcusable 138 percent rate increase.

Combined, the average tax rate increase among them is a whopping 90 percent — or 150 times greater than the publicly elected bodies have done during the exact same period of time.

Like the others, the unelected boards benefited greatly through the middle of the decade when property values soared and millions were added each year to the county's overall tax base.

Just look at the rates for 2007. The year before, the county's overall property value increased an incredible $110,000 million, a stark contrast to 2010, when it failed to increase $1 million.

At that time, the fiscal court raised its rate a penny, the school board decreased by 6 cents and the city dropped a full dime.

But not the unelected boards. Utilizing the same same assessments and massive gains, the library board increased 4 cents, the health board went up a nickel and the fire board went up a dime.

And guess what, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, there's not a thing you or anyone else can do to stop them from doing the exact same thing in the coming years.

Or is there?

Back in August, the public goaded the city council and fiscal court into approving the creation of an ordinance to study the possibility of unified local government.

The overwhelming sentiment for doing so was to reign in the out-of-control taxing districts — namely health and library — which stand in stark contrast to the fire board.

Since August, the city council hasn't even mentioned that ordinance, and the only time it came up at the county level it was tabled by the fiscal court.

Not that unification is required to answer the public's demands. The fiscal court already has the authority to rewrite the local ordinances that created the health and library districts, and seize the power to approve their annual spending budgets and the tax rates they set.

In fact, that's exactly what it did when creating the Extension district, and one need only look at the chart to see how its tax rate has been managed since its inception several years ago.

The same could be true with the other taxing districts, but not until those who face the voters every four years take control.

contributing factor. One source told The Anderson News that accident reconstruction officials have determined that Fackson's vehicle was traveling in excess of 70 mph at the time of the collision.

Tussey said both women were killed as the result of blunt force trauma. Police said Morgan Hellard was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident. Fackson was not.

Morgan Hellard, who was studying to be a pharmacist and worked at the Walmart pharmacy in Lawrenceburg, was on her way home from classes in Lexington when she was killed, according to her aunt.

She was a daughter of Rickie and Connie Hellard, and had a son, Benji, 7.

Marie Hellard said her parents and son are absolutely devastated by her death, but are holding up thanks to the overwhelming support from the community.

"They held up like troopers," she said. "The community's prayers have lifted them up and helped them through this tough time. It really makes you appreciate living in this community."

She said that Connie Hellard spoke during Morgan's funeral service, which she described as an "upbeat service that talked about Morgan's life."

"Her mom spoke about what Morgan meant to her," Marie Hellard said. "She talked about what she meant in her life. She was her soul mate, and that's the truth, and was the light of her parents' life."

"She was an only child, and was the apple of their eye."

She added that the sheer number of people who attended the services was "unbelievable," and that Morgan's co-workers at Walmart served as her pallbearers.

"She always had a smile on her face and was truly a sweet, kind-hearted girl," Marie Hellard said. "Morgan was very driven and was so well-loved among her family and friends."

"She was a great mom, a great daughter and just an all-around good girl."

Marie Hellard said Morgan's loss is the second the family has dealt with recently. Connie Hellard's sister died suddenly about a month ago.

Tussey, the coroner, said he was also called to that scene, and is at a loss to put into words the grief that family has endured over the past several weeks.

"I couldn't believe tragedy could strike that family twice in that short period of time," he said. "I'm astounded that so much grief could come to one family. It's unbelievable."

Along with the state police, the Anderson County Sheriff's Office, Anderson County Fire Department and Anderson County EMS responded to the scene, which closed Versailles Road for several hours.

UK mishandling sports reporters

George Orwell's 1949 tome on political repression, "1984," told of Oceania, a fictional society ruled by Big Brother that bugged the phones of its citizens and practiced strict mind control.

Orwell would have loved the University of Kentucky, the publicly funded institution that recently banned the Kentucky Kernel, its independent campus newspaper, from covering its annual invitation-only media day.

The paper's sin? Aaron Smith, managing editor and sports writer, telephoned a couple of basketball players to ask if they had made the team, without first getting the athletic department's permission to make those calls.

"1984" should be a must-read on the Lexington campus as well as in newsrooms across the state. That's because reporters from media organizations — be they students or professionals — are in constant danger of having their access to players and athletic officials cut off if they publish something the athletic department disagrees with or finds offensive. It's an institution of higher learning where athletic

Allan Wolper
Guest column

[UK is] an institution of higher learning where athletic university staffers station themselves next to journalists interviewing basketball players to make sure the hoopsters don't commit a thought crime. It's an academic outpost where Thalethia Routt, an associate legal counsel to the university, criticized Smith in an online post for being a "pretend journalist," because he dared to telephone two players — a violation of the athletic department's media guidelines. For that Oceania-like crime of behavior, DeWayne Peevy, UK associate athletics director for media relations, or chief thought speaker, kept

Smith from attending the media basketball event Sept. 13. On that day, Peevy allowed Kentucky's sports journalists to actually speak to the basketball players and their coach, John Calipari. Hardly a First Amendment celebration in the Bluegrass State.

The crackdown on the Kentucky Kernel and the reaction by the university athletic department would be YouTube-comical if the university didn't have an obvious ulterior motive. "The real issue isn't about them being concerned about interview requests," Billy Reed, a former sports writer for the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Lexington Herald-Leader, told a Kentucky journalism school seminar. "They want to control their product ... because this is a big business."

It's also a scary business that affects the school newspaper's coverage of all Kentucky sports. Last year, the university stopped Kernel staffers from distributing about 2,000 copies of the paper inside UK's Commonwealth Stadium and to tailgaters around the football stadium — something the students had been doing for 10 years. Why? Because the university has an $80 million contract with IMG, a sports marketing firm, granting exclusive media and advertising rights to every UK sport. In non-sports speak, that makes IMG the university's chief propagandist.

First Amendment lawyers, editors, and assorted media publications all have raised their voices to support the Kernel in its latest

The grand experiment

Once, there was a grand experiment. Psychologists ushered a person into a little room with a one-way mirror and a simple switchboard.

Livers indicated electric shock levels from low to debilitating.

The man in the white lab coat offered basic instructions: read questions to the man or woman you can't see behind the mirror.

For each wrong answer, buzz them with an electric shock.

The more wrong answers, the more intense the current.

As the incorrect answers grew, so did the screams of pain of the unseen people behind the mirror.

Some participants stopped immediately. Some questioned the man in the white lab coat, who simply stated that they must continue.

And most, about 65 percent, continued to shock victims until the bitter end, delivering 450 volts of electricity.

Good thing the person behind the mirror was just an actor, set up to test those who ultimately failed.

The Milgram shock experiment became infamous as a psychological lesson in conformity, to try to understand why people abandon one of the essential pillars of humanity — not harming the innocent — in the sight of authority.

Former Penn State football coach Joe Paterno formulated his own grand experiment: to be the emblem of class and responsibility in collegiate sports.

And he's not the only one who failed it.

We don't scribble down our moral to-do lists on Post-It notes.

I know I don't.

Those things we're supposed to value as sacred exist solely in our own heads.

No one answers a question about their well-being with, "I'm feeling especially ethical today, how about you?"

And when people don't keep moral promises, we react.

I'm sure you've gotten your full share of reactions, from ESPN talking heads to angry Penn State students to JoePa himself.

But as you may have guessed, this scandal has become bigger than itself.

We'd all hope that we'd do the right thing, despite the possible risk.

That our innate sense of right and wrong would guide us to help those who cannot help themselves.

That is, when we're not too busy protecting ourselves.

For years to come, when newspapers and cable TV and radio have moved past this scandal, I know I'll still be wondering how deep the deception went and how far the cover up spread among Penn State staff and administration.

How many other people continued to punish the innocent by remaining silent for far too long.

Milgram's experiment sought to show us that it isn't the few that can be cruel; that same kind of cruelty is inside of all of us, whether we can admit it to ourselves or not.

We are all susceptible to falling short of our own moral expectations, as disappointing and devastating as it may be.

Paterno and Penn State found that out the hard way.

And hopefully, none of us will have to learn the same lesson.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thanks all around for help with 5K run

To the editor:

I just want to write to say how proud I am to be associated with so many fine people who want to help young people.

We put on 5K run to raise money for the boys' basketball team and had 112 runners register.

First of all a thank you goes to the mayor for letting us use the city streets and city police. Police Chief Tommy Burris worked well with us, and the runners loved running on Main Street because it is flat and they could breathe properly. Thanks are also due the sheriff's office.

A big thanks goes to Bart Powell, EMS director, for supplying an ambulance, ham radio club workers and volunteer firefighters for directing the runners.

Their support for a great cause was a lifesaver to all the runners in having someone at all the turns.

Bart, I want to personally say thank you and please pass it on to all your workers for a job well done.

All the runners loved that course and a lot of them told me that it was their fastest time for them of the year.

I want to say thanks to all the volunteers who worked either on the route or at the finish because without you the event is not a success.

Also to all the parents who brought refreshments for the runners, I say thank you.

It just shows that a lot of people will help for a great cause.

What better cause than young people? They are the future and we need to help them.

Also, a special thanks goes to Sheila Mitchell, superintendent, and Gina Fultz, principal, for supporting the run, and the students in Mr. Robinson's agricultural department for the floral awards.

Last but not least a big thanks to all the runners and walkers to make this event a big success, along with the sponsors. The sponsors really were great. I can't thank them enough. The people of Anderson County need to support these places and thank them for supporting the youth of tomorrow.

A message for people who don't like church

I saw this on a billboard in Cincinnati a couple of years ago. At first glance I was offended, but the more I thought about it the more I realized what the ad was saying.

The ad said people have grown tired of churches which are lifeless in nature, ran by the pastor, an elder or some prominent family or individual rather than relying on God and his word

Vern Huber
Guest column

to direct the church.

If you find yourself relating to the ad previously mentioned, let me invite you to experience a church where the word of God is first and foremost, where the people who attend allow the word of God to change their thinking and actions, where the word of God is shared with others with love and forgiveness.

If this sounds like the perfect church, it is not.

It is, though, a group of people who love the Lord and want to conform to the pattern of the early church; where the needs of the people are more important than budgets, programs or facilities.

The name of the church is New Life Christian Fellowship and we are located at 1028 Industry Road, Lawrenceburg.

Sunday morning worship is at 10 a.m. We invite you to come and experience a relaxed atmosphere with love and acceptance for all.

Jesus said, "Come, all who are weary and I will give you rest."

Here's a way to learn more about organic gardening

Well, November is already half over and Thanksgiving is just around the corner.

So, I'd like to take this time to say "Thank you!" I don't think there's a week that goes by that I don't hear nice things from you. It really means a lot to hear your comments and have feedback on my columns. Thanks to you, I always learn something and for that I am very grateful.

Most of you know, from reading this column, that I use organic methods exclusively to grow my garden. It just fits with my own personal philosophy of life. I believe it's better for my health and for the environment. It's all I've ever known, from my first vegetable stand (at age 8) to the current day.

When you've done something the same way all your life you get comfortable with it. That doesn't mean you don't experiment with new things. Having a base knowledge to work from makes a big difference.

That said, I'd like to tell you about a new online program at Washington State University. If you've wanted to go organic, but just didn't know where to begin, this is a great education in just a short time.

The entire program is only 18 hours of credit and it covers a lot. Not surprising, most of the classes focus on soil. I liken the soil in an organic garden to cooking supper. You not only need the all the ingredients for each dish, you need to know how to make it, in order for it to turn out to be something people actually eat.

The soil provides all the ingredients a plant needs to put down strong roots. It feeds the plant, so it can grow strong and produce fruit. The rest of the course features methods to handle pest and disease control, along with harvesting, safe food handling and storage.

With winter on the way, it's a great time to get your gardening fix without going out into the cold. Washington State was the first university in the nation to offer a degree in organic agriculture, so they have a proven track record. Whether you're a beginning gardener or an old hand doesn't matter, the course is designed for all.

I spend a lot of my indoor time studying gardening. It's way more pleasant than cleaning the house. During the winter, lots of gardeners talk online about what they did over the summer. They share what worked and what didn't. They talk about the good, bad and the ugly of varieties and methods they've tried. I've a firm believer in learning from other's mistakes, because I can't possibly make them all myself.

Mistakes are good because you always learn something. Many times the mistakes turn out even better than what you had originally planned. My point is that you'll never know until you try something new. Curiosity is a wonderful motivator.

Right now, curiosity is motivating me to go check on the dogs because it's way too quiet. The cold weather has made them curious about everything. A stick tight on the carpet may be some cool bug to eat. A new trail on the farm may be an adventure into a wild animal's world. I'm praying it's not a skunk. It's that time you know.

Speaking of time, don't forget to mark your calendar for the Saturday after Thanksgiving because you don't want to miss the Humane Society's Annual Giant Rummage Sale at the Legion Hall, across from the high school. You can drop items off Friday night and shop on Saturday. There'll be pet portraits, too. All proceeds benefit the homeless animals of Anderson County and right now they really need your help. Snow is on the way and your help can bring a little sunshine into their lives.

Next week, as many of you dear readers have requested, I hope to be able to tell you Mother Nature's signs for our winter weather forecast. Right now, all I can say is "Brrrrr!" Now, get to the store. I don't know what kind of weather Thanksgiving will bring, but it's always better to be prepared.

confrontation with the university. But I could not find any real flashes of outrage from UK faculty — an academic condition that has become an epidemic on college campuses with big-time sports programs.

“Most faculty don’t understand the role of the school paper,” said Sally Renaud, who just finished up a year as president of College Media Advisers, an organization that fights for the First Amendment rights of campus newspapers. “The faculty don’t seem to know the campus paper is often the only permanent record of university affairs.”

The Kentucky student journalists seem mostly amused by the attention they’re getting and vow to keep monitoring the athletic department. “If we need to talk to a player for an important story, we’re going to call him,” Taylor Moak, editor-in-chief, told me. “They’re not going to stop us from doing any investigative stories.”

I certainly hope so, but there is a problem the Kernel keeps to itself: The newspaper’s offices are located in a university building. That means the school can shut them down any time it feels like doing so, even though the university says it respects the paper’s right to hold it accountable.

“The Kernel has a long tradition of asking tough questions in its role as an independent newspaper, and this administration has a long tradition of defending student journalists’ right to do so,” said Jay Blanton, university executive director of public relations, in a statement to the media. But as the saying goes, watch what they do, not what they say.

The university, meanwhile, seems poised to pounce on any mistake by the professional Kentucky media. Peevy recently told the Herald-Leader he was not allowing one of its reporters to cover one of the university’s players because of a mistake made in a question and answer interview.

It was the third time in the last two years that UK has tried to dictate which Herald-Leader reporter can cover its basketball team. The last time it happened, Peter Baniak, editor of the Herald-Leader, boycotted the university’s media days. He told me his editors were discussing how to handle this most recent incident.

UK’s love and especially hate relationship with its hometown paper dates back to 1985 when the Herald-Leader published a devastating series, called “Playing Above the Rules,” by Jeffrey A. Marx and Michael M. York, that exposed illegal cash payoffs to Kentucky basketball players. The series won a Pulitzer Prize the following year.

I have a suggestion on how to handle the Kentucky censors. The next time the university bans the campus paper, or any other media organization, from covering one of its events, all the journalists should pack up their computers and walk out. When any institution — especially a university — violates the First Amendment rights of one news organization, it violates the rights of them all, as well as their readers and viewers.

Mom pulls son from flame-filled bedroom

Space heater likely caused blaze that ruined most of Alton Station family's belongings

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

An Alton Station family is safe following a fire early Monday morning that caused significant damage to their home.

But it was close. Anderson County Fire Chief Mike Barnes said only fast action by a woman inside the home likely saved her child.

"For whatever reason, the mother woke up, smelled smoke and went in to check on the boy, who is 3 to 4 years old," Barnes said.

"When she got into his bedroom, she saw flames coming up from between the boy's bed and the wall, grabbed him, ran through the house yelling 'fire!' and got him out of there.

"It wouldn't have taken much longer, and we would have had a fatality."

The house, Barnes said, is the residence of Bryan Harvey. The name of the mother and child weren't immediately available.

Barnes said the blaze remains under investigation, but could have been caused by a space heater.

The fire caused significant damage to the residence, and Barnes said the fire or its resulting heat and smoke destroyed most of the family's belongings.

"It's going to be a significant loss for them," Barnes said.

Barnes said it's unusual to have someone awakened to the smell of smoke.

"Smoke usually deadens the senses," he said.

He added that the home did not have a working smoke detector at the time of the fire.

"There were none," he said.

"We were told that one was taken down three weeks ago to put in a battery, but they never got around to it."

Responding to the scene were Anderson County firefighters and EMS.

Citation Lane man indicted for trafficking to minor

From staff reports

A Citation Lane man was indicted Nov. 8 by the Anderson County Grand Jury on multiple drug trafficking and possession charges, including one involving a minor.

Jeffrey S. Perkins, 42, of 4129 Citation Lane, faces several felony and misdemeanor charges for possession and trafficking of Oxycodone, Phenergan and Trazadone in separate incidents dating back to March, according to the indictment.

In one charge, Perkins "committed the offense of unlawful transaction with a minor in the first degree when he knowingly induced, assisted or caused a minor to engage in illegal controlled substance activity, other than actively involving marijuana," the indictment says.

He was also indicted on a felony count of first-degree wanton endangerment.

The case was investigated by officer Jeremy Cornish with the Lawrenceburg Police Department.

Other Grand Jury indictments

Mark A. Sparks, 25 (address unknown) was indicted on two first-degree Class D felony counts for possession of Oxycodone.

Two other counts — fleeing or evading police and failure to have a controlled substance in its original container — were dismissed.

Police say that Sparks possessed 10 and 15 mg. tablets of Oxycodone on Sept. 28.

The case was investigated by Trooper Jason Briscoe of the Kentucky State Police.

Jessica M. Harris, 31, of 1117 Lewis St., Lawrenceburg, was indicted on a Class D felony count of theft by unlawful taking.

The incident occurred Sept. 22 when police say she shoplifted less than $500 worth of goods from Walmart.

The case was investigated by the Lawrenceburg Police Department.

The man police say shot himself in the leg to avoid handing over rent was indicted on two felonies.

Zachary S. Penwell, 30, of 201.5 Saffell St., Lawrenceburg, was indicted on a Class D felony count of theft by unlawful taking of between $500 but less than $10,000 for depriving the property owner of rent he apparently collected on his behalf.

Penwell was also charged with a Class A misdemeanor count of falsely reporting an incident to police.

The incident occurred July 12, and was investigated by the Kentucky State Police.

Collin W. Catlett, 21, of 210 Lynn Drive, Lawrenceburg, was indicted on a Class D felony count of third-degree burglary for breaking into Saffell Street Elementary School on Sept. 25.

He is also charged with a Class D felony count of theft by unlawful taking for stealing an item or items valued at over $500, according to the indictment.

A third felony count of second-degree burglary at the school was dismissed.

Murder suspect in court Tuesday

From staff reports

The man charged with murdering a Clay Burgin Road woman in January is scheduled to appear next Tuesday morning in Anderson Circuit Court.

Terrence Cram, 49, allegedly murdered Tena McNeely, 49, on Jan. 3 at her residence on Clay Burgin Road, about 14 miles west of Lawrenceburg.

Cram disappeared, leaving a trail of receipts from credit cards he allegedly stole from McNeely following her murder.

He was captured several months later in Arizona.

He is also charged with tampering with physical evidence and fraudulent misuse of a credit card.

McNeely apparently rented a room to Cram for about five years.

McNeely died of a brain injury from blunt impact, investigators said at the time, and may have lived from minutes to hours following her assault.

Fired ex-social worker in court Tuesday for disposition hearing

From staff reports

The fired ex-social worker charged in tampering with public records in cases involving alleged sexual abuse of children is scheduled to appear Tuesday, Nov. 22 in Anderson County Circuit Court for a disposition hearing.

The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m.

Margaret "Geri" Murphy pleaded not guilty in September to nine felony charges based on a number of child custody cases she was supposed to investigate between 2006 and 2010.

Murphy was told in February to "quit or be fired" from her job as a social worker in Anderson County after allegations against her began to mount.

Along with alleged sexual abuse, other cases include allegations of child neglect, parents using drugs while an infant and toddler were in their vehicle, and another allegation of abuse that, according to a parent, resulted in children "smearing feces all over the bathroom and themselves," and "acting out sexually against a young child visiting the [parent's] home."

In one case, a state trooper investigating the alleged sexual abuse of an infant said he believes Murphy's actions led to the child being abused again. In that case, a mother's boyfriend was suspected of sexually abusing an infant, and that a preschool sibling of the infant was acting out sexually at day-care.

In her report, Murphy wrote that a trooper with the Kentucky State Police told her that a hair found in the baby's pubic area was examined and found be hair from a dog, not a human.

An investigation proved that false, according to the attorney general's office, because the trooper involved later said the hair had not been tested and that he never told Murphy that it was a dog's hair.

A complaint was filed against Murphy by unspecified law enforcement, and Murphy later admitted to an investigator that she lied about information in the report, according to court documents. The mother in 2010 reunited with the boyfriend, and another case was opened.

Anderson County Schools earn spot on AP Honor Roll

From staff reports

Anderson County Schools was one of five Kentucky districts to be designated as a member of the College Board's second annual AP District Honor Roll for significant gains in Advanced Placement access and student performance.

The AP District Honor Roll nationally recognizes and acknowledges districts' successes and efforts to expand AP access, performance and commitment to increasing student achievement.

Only 367 districts were selected nationwide this year. Inclusion on the second annual AP District Honor Roll is based on the following criteria:

- Examination of three years of AP data, from 2009- 2011
- Increase in participation in/access to AP by at least 11 percent in small districts
- A steady or increasing percentage of exams taken by African American, Hispanic/Latino and American Indian/Alaska Native students; and · Performance levels maintained or improved when comparing the percentage of students in 2011 scoring a 3 or higher to those in 2009, or the school has already attained a performance level in which more than 70 percent of the AP students are scoring a 3 or higher.

"We are very proud of our teachers and students who have earned this honor," Principal Ronnie Fields said, according to the press release. "Advanced Placement classes not only provide an opportunity to earn college credit while in high school, they absolutely are the best preparation for their studies after graduation. At Anderson County High School, we challenge all students to take at least one AP course during their four years here."

Five middle school students attend ACDA choir

From staff reports

Five students from ACMS were selected to perform at the Kentucky American Choral Directors' Association (KYACDA) Honor Choir.

This is the first time ACMS has had students audition for this choir in recent years. Students selected performed difficult music and worked with nationally recognized choral teachers.

Two students were selected for the fifth and sixth grade children's choir, and three students were selected for the SSA junior high choir.

CLARIFICATION

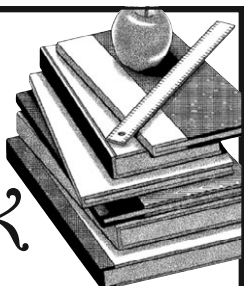

From staff reports

William Thompson was omitted from the "A" and "A-B" honor rolls, reprinted in last week's Anderson News, for the first nine-week marking period at Emma B. Ward Elementary School.

Thompson should have been named to the "All A's" Honor Roll under Mr. Calvert's fifth grade homeroom. Thompson also received perfect attendance.

Audit shows city council spending up 11 percent

New water tank to be built on Wild Turkey property

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

The city council reviewed and approved both its yearly audit and a million-dollar economic development grant to build a new water tank at its Nov. 14 meeting.

The city's net assets increased by $93,537 for the fiscal year, yet government spending increased by 11 percent, according to an independent audit of the city's finances.

Auditor Thomas Smith of Farmer and Humble presented his findings to the council, explaining that the city took more money in than it budgeted, and spent less than it had budgeted, despite more than $1 million in depreciation regarding real property such as the city water and sewer plants and infrastructure.

Street expenses and general expenses decreased by $70,000 and $73,000, respectively.

Police expenses increased by $134,000, cemetery by $93,000, fire by $30,000 and emergency management by $1,130.

Council member Bobby Durr brought up the 11 percent increase, saying that he'd like to see the city make cuts where it can.

"I'd like to see us reduce that," Durr said. "We need to tighten our belts like everyone else."

The city receives 42 percent of its revenue from other taxes and fees, 34 percent from property taxes and 10 percent from operating grants and contributions.

Mayor Edwinna Baker said increases in retirement and hazardous duty health insurance were the main causes of the increase in city expenses.

"We're looking at cutting that and bringing that back into line," she said. Smith's only suggestion to the council was to examine its travel and meal reimbursement policy, stating the city may want to look at the state's policy and adopt it as its own.

Baker proposed forming an insurance committee that will examine city insurance expenses starting in January, and the committee met the council's approval.

Regarding old business, Baker updated the council on the status of the EDA grant.

The city received about $1.353 million from economic development association grants funds to build a larger water tank on Wild Turkey property.

The new tank will increase capacity by 300,000 gallons, Public Works Director Larry Hazlett said, and will replace the two tanks on Center Street. Hazlett said those two tanks will be torn down, and construction on the new tank will potentially begin in March or April.

"It just fell into place," Baker said, mentioning that the city only learned of the grant in August. "It was a very timely grant."

The council unanimously approved both an interlocal agreement resolution regarding bonds and an ordinance detailing a Kentucky League of Cities Loan agreement so that the city could have access to $268,000 from the KLC to receive the grant.

Both the resolution and the ordinance agreement will become effective upon their passage.

Council member Sandy Goodlett expressed that the situation was "win-win" for the city, in that the city would spend only a little more than a quarter of the total expense for the water tank.

"We were faced with huge expenses, paying for those tanks on our own," Goodlett said.

Community Partner reports

Local community partners gave also reports to the city council on their progress.

Rhonda Wheeler, campus director of the Bluegrass Community and Technical College in Lawrenceburg, reported the college had grown from 250 to 1,200 students in the last five years, employing 31 full-time faculty and 45 adjunct professors.

"When other businesses are hurting in times like these, the community college is booming," she said.

Bart Powell, director of public safety, reported that emergency management had received grant funding for supplies, radios and road damage.

Emergency Management received $35,000 for 26 portable and 36 mobile radios for county and city government, and $75,000 for road damage due to flooding from FEMA, with $300,000 still pending.

Pam Rice, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, David Steedly of the Anderson County Environmental Committee, Fire Chief Robert Hume and Police Chief Tommy Burris also reported their progress.

Annual House of Trees fundraiser kicks off Friday

From staff reports

Each year Anderson County Relay for Life proudly sponsors what has become a central Kentucky tradition known as the "House of Trees."

Held the week before Thanksgiving each year, the event marks the start of the holidays and celebrates community.

This year's House of Trees will take place Friday, Nov. 18; Saturday, Nov. 19; and Sunday, Nov. 20 in the West Park Shopping Center located at 755 South Broadway in Lawrenceburg.

Begun in 2009, the event has raised more than $25,000 to support the many programs of the American Cancer Society through its Relay for Life.

Relay for Life represents the hope that those lost to cancer will never be forgotten, that those who face cancer will be supported, and that one day, cancer will be eliminated. All proceeds from the House of Trees benefit the ACS, thanks to the generous donations of its supporters each year.

Volunteers hang a banner announcing the House of Trees program in Anderson County, which is a fundraiser for Relay for Life.

Local organizations, churches, businesses and individuals make the event a reality each year by designing and donating beautifully theme-decorated trees, wreaths, centerpieces, and decorative gingerbread houses to be sold at silent auction.

Just as popular is the regional talent that performs each year throughout the weekend. Schools and other groups volunteer their time each year to prepare for and perform at the event. Entertainment ranges from singing and dancing to instrumental holiday music. This year's preview party on Friday night will feature music by the "Conch Fritters."

On Saturday, entertainers will perform all day with acts ranging from singing to dancing for children and adults. Sunday will feature traditional and contemporary Christian music performed by church groups throughout Central Kentucky.

Tickets to this year's preview party on Friday can be purchased in advance or at the door. This year reserved seating will also be available for tables of eight as well as individual admission. Tickets for admission to Saturday and Sunday events can only be purchased at the door.

For all the details, including a full schedule of events, entertainment line up, and admission prices, go to the web site as www.houseoftrees.org or call 859-806-1889.

Plum Peachy Jam is plum good eatin'

50 YEARS AGO
Sept. 21, 1961

Jimmy Phillips, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Phillips, was pictured holding 4-pound bass. The youngster caught the monster fish out of the McKee pond. Jimmy, who was fishing with his father who didn't get a single bite, used an artificial night crawler to hook his catch.

Wyatt Shely was commissioned a Kentucky Colonel.

Jams Silas Stratton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Obed Stratton, accepted a teaching position with Lloyd High School at Erlanger.

THE WAY WE WERE

40 YEARS AGO
Oct. 7, 1971

Kathleen Cooper was the second place winner of the Jam-Jelly contest sponsored by Fox Creek RECC.

"I actually did invent this recipe. I had peaches here on the farm, but they are white and make a most unappetizing looking jam. I wanted some color and came up with the plum peelings. It worked fine. I got the color I wanted and, as plums are a good buy when peaches are ripe, the cost of the jam isn't prohibitive," said Kathleen Cooper.

per.

Plum Peachy Jam

10 cups of peach pieces, peeled
8 large red plums, peeled (keep plum peelings)
Cut into chunks
1/2 cup water
Boil plum peelings in water until water turns a bring pink and peelings are soft, about 5 minutes. Put through food mill or ricer.
Add this puree to plum and peach pieces.
Put fruit mixture and 1/2 cup water in a large kettle. Bring mixture to a boil over slow heat (it will scorch easily). Occasionally mash pieces with a potato masher, stir frequently and cook until pieces are soft, about 20 minutes.

Remove from heat and measure plum-peach pulp.

For each cup of pulp, add 1 cup of sugar. Cook over medium heat stirring to prevent scorching.

After mixture comes to a rolling boil, cook about 20 minutes or until thick.

Put into sealable canning jars, seal. Place in hot water bath for 10 minutes. Makes approximately 8 pints.

Fall festival raises $3,000 for Robert B. Turner Elementary

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

More than 500 students, parents and community members attended the annual Titan Fall Festival fundraiser Nov. 11 to participate in games, bid on baskets and ultimately raise money for Robert B. Turner students.

Tanya Cook, treasurer of the Parent Teacher Organization, said the fall festival is something that's been held every year since Robert B. Turner opened in 2002.

"It gets bigger and better every year," she said. "By six o'clock, it was booming."

This year the festival raised almost $3,000, which will pay for new technology and field trips, Cook said.

Robert B. Turner Elementary opened its halls for vendors and its cafeteria as a chili supper and concessions area.

The gym became a carnival, offering stations of games such as the cake walk, ring toss, inflatable bouncy house and a basket raffle.

Teachers and high school volunteers assisted with running the games, as well as individual students.

Ms. Copenhaver's class came up with the concept of "Minute to Win It," and some of her students volunteered themselves to help explain the instructions and monitor the game at the festival.

"We have a great group of PTO volunteers, parents," Cook said.

Students from Alicia Copenhaver's class came up with the concept for a "Minute To Win It" game at the Titan Fall Festival. Participants chose either to stack a pyramid of cups, or to slide tokens underneath an obstacle in a minute to win a prize.

Extension hosts holiday festival

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Adults are not the only ones who can get a head start on their Christmas shopping.

The Anderson County Extension Homemakers will host a Holiday Festival, formerly known as Santa's Workshop, this Saturday, Nov. 19 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. so that children can shop for their parents, siblings, friends and even pets. Doors open at 8:30 a.m.

There will also be an area for adults to shop for the exclusively homemade gift items.

According to Shirley Moffett, president of Fox Creek homemakers and chairperson of the holiday committee, part of the proceeds of the festival will go toward a $500 college scholarship for a student planning to major in an Extension-related field.

Local youth from the FCCLA and church youth groups assist children in picking out gift items, with prices ranging from a quarter to $5.

"No one is allowed upstairs except people who are supposed to be with the kids," Moffett said.

While children are waiting for their parents to finish their Christmas shopping list, there will be breakfast food available for purchase and hands-on crafts for the children to do, Moffett said.

Santa Claus will also be present at the Holiday Festival, which will be located downstairs at the Extension Office.

For more information, contact the Anderson County Extension office at 839-7271.

Worriers aren't putting their faith in God

I worry about everything. I worry about bills, friendships, mistakes, today, tomorrow — you name it, I worry a lot.

In these uncertain times and with the state of the world, who doesn't worry? Well, I often have to check myself and remember what the word of God tells us about worry.

In Psalm 37:8, "do not fret — it leads only to evil."

The synoptic books Matthew and Luke both have specific similar commands to the disciples from Christ.

Luke 12:22: "Then Jesus said to his disciples: Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat; or about your body, what you will wear."

Finally we jump to Philippians 4:6 and are told, "Do not be anxious (worried) about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God."

I struggle every day to put enough faith in God and to accept that he is in control of my life. This is a weakness of mine that explicitly is defined in the scripture. By worrying, I do not put the faith in God that he deserves.

I am comforted knowing that I do not have to worry about anything and it's a true joy that I can bring my requests to God and he hears me.

Enjoying playoff ride

Go ahead, admit it. We won't hold it against you if, back on Oct. 14, you said the chances of Anderson County still playing football the weekend before Thanksgiving were named Slim and None with Slim getting ready to get in the saddle to ride out of town.

You might remember what happened that night. Franklin County had routed the Bearcats 56-24 in the worst shellacking Anderson had taken since 2005, which happened to be Coach Mark Peach's first year and happens to be significant in itself.

"Would you have ever thought this could happen back in 2005?" Peach asked less than 10 minutes after his Bearcats had earned a spot in their regional championship game for the second straight year.

Well, actually, you had to think it was possible. Peach had a reputation of a winner, taking two teams to the state championship game and had won regional titles at another. If it could happen there, it could happen at Anderson.

But it sure didn't seem possible four weeks ago. Anderson was very good, no question, but was banged up and would be traveling to East Jessamine, the team many figured would be Anderson's main competition for a district title when the season began back in August.

To say things looked bleak to even host a playoff game, much less win two of them, would not be stretching things. But seeing things in that half-empty glass did not understand the job Peach has done making his team believe great things are possible.

And it certainly did not recognize what Peach talked about moments after the Bearcats routed East Jessamine. "We have heart," he said as he drew an imaginary one on his chest.

He repeated the phrase after his team turned back everything Marion County could muster the following week. He said it again after the Bearcats took South Oldham's best punch, then methodically moved down the field for a game-winning touchdown.

And he noted it again after Anderson, a trendy pick to be upset last weekend, routed a Montgomery County team that had been on a bit of a roll in the month leading up to the game.

I can tell you that I am no expert on X's and O's in any sport. Like most fans, I tend to watch the movement of the ball and interpret the action based upon what happens around the ball. The technical aspects of most games are for the coaches to discuss.

But I know a winner when I see one.

And Anderson County's Band of Brothers have proven time and again over the last season-and-a-half that they are winners.

They've gotten some breaks, certainly. East Jessamine lost Cameron Thomas just before playing the Bearcats and Montgomery upset Cooper, giving Anderson a second home playoff game.

But focusing on things that Anderson had nothing to do with overlooks how the Bearcats took care of things they could control. The line finally got healthy and jelled. Special teams played huge roles in the Marion and South Oldham wins.

Against Montgomery, Anderson was simply superb.

It really is a long way from 2005.

Bearcats roll, advance to regional final

Kelly's six TDs sets school record as Anderson whips Montgomery

One step closer to Bowling Green. That's how Anderson County football coach Mark Peach described his team's 56-20 rout of Montgomery County on Friday night.

"We are one step closer to Bowling Green," Peach told his team in the post-game meeting. "We are one step closer."

Bowling Green is the home of the state championship game, with the Class 5A title to be decided on Dec. 3. With perhaps its finest outing of the year, the Bearcats advanced to their second consecutive regional championship game and the fourth in school history. Anderson has never won a regional title.

"I am so proud of the guys, said Anderson coach Mark Peach. "They executed in all three phases - offense, defense, special teams - in a rematch like this. We took Montgomery very serious."

Anderson defeated Montgomery 31-14 on Sept. 23, but Montgomery had won three of its last four games, including an upset of Cooper, the top seed from District 5, a week earlier.

But Anderson made sure there would be no funny business on its home field.

"We are just a Band of Brothers, trying to help each other out," said junior running back Granville Hayes, whose touchdown got the Bearcats on the board first.

The Bearcats got a record-setting night from senior running back Ethan Kelly, who broke a school record by scoring six touchdowns. Kelly ran for 132 yards and three touchdowns and caught four passes for 172 yards and a pair of scores. He also picked off a pass and returned it 30 yards for a score in the third quarter. Kelly finished with 334 all-

Bearcats face tradition-rich Conner in regional final

Coach calls Boone County squad mirror image of Anderson

By John Herndon

If Anderson County wants to see some of itself Friday night, it can just look across the line of scrimmage at Conner.

"It is like looking in a mirror when you see them," Bearcat coach Mark Peach says. "They are very similar to us. They have several players who chip in. They play extremely well together. They are solid on offense, defense and in the kicking game."

The Bearcats travel to Conner, located in Boone County, for the Class 5A, Region 3 championship game Friday. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Anderson, which was a trendy pick to make statewide noise in the pre-season, was supposed to be here. Conner was not, but had the state talking last Friday night when the Cougars ripped previously unbeaten Franklin County, 84-48.

That is not a misprinted basketball score.

Conner did it by steam-rolling Franklin with 835 yards, 745 of them on the ground.

"They are impressive," Peach says. "Their offensive line is just tremendous. They don't just block you, they try to bury each play. They stay on people until the whistle blows. Their quarterback (sophomore Drew Barker) is a very good player and they have a stable of running backs who are all excellent."

Barker is the team's leading rusher, with 1,035 yards through eight games, the last time his statistics were updated at the KHSAA. Peach says senior Dylan Levesy, junior Cameron Fogle

It could be said that Karla Phillips has come full circle.

Or that she has completed her laps.

Phillips was a freshman at Anderson County High School when she learned the school's first swim team was being formed. Now, eight years later and fresh out of college, Phillips has taken over the program with high hopes and, it appears, boundless enthusiasm despite the hardship of having no home pool and a history of never hav-

Cat Madness is Saturday

By John Herndon

The Red, Blue and White will be honoring the Red, White and Blue.

That is the intent of the Anderson County boys' basketball program as it hosts the annual Cat Madness on Saturday, Nov. 19. The first of three scrimmages, Henry County and Richmond Model, will tip off at 4:30 p.m. followed by the Anderson County girls' Blue-White intra-squad scrimmage and the Bearcats hosting Frankfort in the final game of the day.

But basketball is only part of the program as the Bearcats plan on honoring those who have served the country in the military.

"Sometimes, you get caught up in our world and forget the freedoms that we have," Anderson County boys' basketball coach Glen Drury said. "We have so many freedoms in our country and we don't want to lose sight of that."

Drury said that during the program, 500

LEXINGTON - The look of disappointment was still etched on Austin Dillow's face 10 minutes after he had completed his final cross country race as a high school runner.

"I just didn't run," Dillow said after finishing 104th, well behind his stated goal of a top 50 finish in the state Class 3A meet, held at the Kentucky Horse Park on Sat-

Golfers named all-region

From staff reports

Anderson County Lady Bearcat golfers Kaitlyn Riley and Anna-Marie Hyatt have been named to the all-region team by the Region 7 coaches.

Riley, a sophomore, made the state tournament for the second time this fall.

Hyatt, a junior, just missed advancing out of the region.

Two Anderson soccer players named all-state

From staff reports

Anderson County girls' soccer players Taylor Clark and Emily Mager were honored by the state's coaches recently when they were named to the all-state second team.

A midfielder, Clark was, by far, Anderson's top offensive threat. She scored 19 goals and tallied 14 assists for the Lady Bearcats. Clark has generated some interest from NCAA Division I schools, but has not finalized her college choice.

Mager allowed just 28 goals in 22 games for the lady Bearcats. She was widely considered one of Kentucky's best and Lady Cat coach Jason Earnest often credited her with keeping Anderson in the game against a rugged schedule.

Mager has verbally committed to NCAA Division II Queen's College, located in Charlotte, NC.

Here's

Christian Academy hoops off to good start

From staff reports

The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg Rams traveled to Morehead's Lakeside Christian Academy but suffered their first loss of the season, 78-73. This was Lakeside's first game, but the Falcons played like the experienced team they are. Lakeside has three seniors in their starting lineup.

The first half saw teams equal in size and talent play good aggressive ball. The half ended with the score at 32-29 in CAL's favor.

As the second quarter was ending senior Michael Kuiper had a "Monster Block" resulting in the Lakeside shooter going to the floor.

In the second half, the momentum changed as CAL seemed to lose that well-balanced play which served the Rams so well in the past games. There were no big men in the game during the fourth quarter as CAL relied heavily on its outside shooting. Fortunately the guards shots were falling and kept the team in the game. Matthew Robinson had a team-high 27 points. Senior Jared Slaughter found his shooting eye and had 14 points in the second half.

Coach Cory Robinson said, "This was a tough loss. We didn't execute our offense or get back on defense to stop those run outs. But it gives me an idea on what to work on. CAL has great fans with as many fans showing up as Lakeside had."

CAL routs Danville Christian

Friday night, the Rams charged into Harrodsburg to defeat Danville Christian 67-33.

According to DCA head coach Jeremy Tarter, "This is our first game of the year.

Photo furnished

Christian Academy's Jason Smith goes for a basket during varsity action at Morehead Lakeside on Saturday.

We have a young team whose leaders are mostly sophomores and younger."

From the tip-off this inexperience showed when CAL quickly controlled the tempo of the game.

The score was 11-2 when Coach Tarter called his first time out.

The Rams surged behind senior forward Zac Gray's open shots and Jared Slaughter's passing.

CAL head coach Cory Robinson said, "This was another night of well balanced scoring led by Zac Gray with 21 points, Forrest Bowman 13 points and Matthew Robinson 11 points. The last two games we came together and jelled as a team."

Coach Tarter of DCA agreed "CAL is a well coached team, and will be one of the toughest teams we will play this year."

An attaboy award goes to Aaron Dennis who did a terrific block that had Danville and CAL fans cheering, and to the CAL team another game well done.

CAL rolls past

Bourbon County Christian

Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg defeated Bourbon County Christian Academy Lions, 58-21, last Tuesday in the Rams' first game at the Anderson County Early Childhood Center gym.

From the tip-off CAL took control behind strong defense and well balanced scoring.

Head coach Cory Robinson was able to play aggressive ball by relying on his bench to keep up the intensity when resting the starters.

The CAL offense was so well balanced that 11 of the 13 boys who played got into the scoring column. The team was led by Zac Craft, Logan Lynn and Matthew Robinson with eight points each.

Several of the boys came off the bench to contribute in noticeable ways. Forrest Bowman seemed to always be in the right place for rebounds and deflections. Michael Kuiper played good solid defense that contributed to Bourbon County turnovers and Craft contributed a much needed scoring boost in a second quarter slump.

Bourbon County had to rely heavily on their guards Justin and Stanton Smith to create any points for their team when CAL defense shut down Bourbon County's outside shooting.

The Smith brothers took to driving inside for opportunities to score. This caused trouble for CAL's defense giving Bourbon County 16 of their total 31 points at the free throw line.

American flags will be available for fans and that the Bearcats will present a video tribute to veterans.

"We are a public school," Drury said. "Sometimes, we forget that education in this country is free."

A former Anderson player, Seth Goodlett, was injured while serving in the Army in Afghanistan in the last year, and another recent basketball player, Dustin Aldridge, is currently serving in the Marines in the same country. "We have a lot of former students in the military," Drury said. "We also have great law enforcement and great emergency services in this town."

"We have got to give some service back."

Cat Madness, now in its 19th year, serves as a local start to the basketball season, featuring the Bearcat and Lady Bearcat teams. Drury said that an added twist this year will be in honoring all of the school's fall athletes.

Admission to Cat Madness will be $5 per person with gates opening two hours before the first scrimmage.

From staff reports

The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg boys' middle school basketball team opened regular season play in Morehead on Saturday with a big win over Lakeside Christian.

The Rams, coached by Mark Bowman, came ready to play defense, forcing 17 turnovers as they rolled to a 51-22 victory.

In the first half, it was tenacious defense that led to many offensive opportunities. Early on, Chandler Royalty stole the ball and drove for the easy lay-in.

Then the Rams capitalized on several defensive plays as Ben Pinkston had two take-aways that lead to putting four more points on the board. Nathan Bain stripped it away again and drove the length of the court.

He missed the shot, but Royalty followed up and tapped it in, topping off an 11-4 Rams' run.

The rest of the first half was more of the same as Royalty, Bain, and Pinkston combined for 25 points and CAL led it 31-12 at the half.

The Rams came out strong in the second half, much like they did in the first.

Michael Secen started the second half off with two quick points, then Pinkston took over and scored 8 points off of some lockdown defense on the other end of the court.

Zachary Dennis also turned it up in the second half, and knocked down two shots for the Rams. Lakeside could never get anything going on offense, much to the credit of the Rams defense

Royalty led all scoring with 15, followed closely by Pinkston with 14, Bain and Dennis with 6 each, Smith with 4, and Secen and King each with 2 respectively.

Bowman said, "I was happy I was able to use our entire bench to keep up the energy, our focus is on pushing the ball and playing a trapping zone defense to force turnovers."

The Rams next game is at home on Saturday, Nov. 19 against Blue Grass Baptist. The game will be at 3 p.m. at Fox Creek Christian Church.

pose yards. There is no truth to the rumor that he was parking cars before the game.

But it was that kind of night for the senior, who now has more than 1,000 yards both rushing and receiving. The school's all time leading scorer, Kelly now has scored 168 points this season.

Kelly deferred praise to his linemen. "(Montgomery) couldn't answer anything our line was doing," he said.

Peach added, "I am just so proud of those guys. Getting (sophomore Darius) Harvey back was big and we had great leadership from our seniors, Travis Davis, Chris Noble, Mackenzie Morris, Chris Fitzpatrick. That is a great bunch." The Bearcats piled up 556 yards of offense and earned 28 first downs. Montgomery was finished by halftime as the Bearcats had buzzed their way to a 28-7 advantage.

"After they beat Rockcastle (County) and after they beat Cooper, we knew they were really a challenge," Peach said.

Anderson turned in a huge defensive effort, keeping

Anderson County defenders Travis Phillips (35), Spencer Ruggles (80) and Ross Cox (25) bottle up Montgomery County's Daryl McCane.

Montgomery out of the red zone until the fourth quarter. The Bearcats yielded just 244 yards, almost half coming in the fourth quarter when Montgomery's starters were, for the most part, playing against Anderson's junior varsity. Montgomery's final score came as time ran out.

"That was championship caliber defense," Peach said. "When we play like this in all three phases of the game, we have an opportunity to make a run at (the state championship)." The Bearcats got on the board quickly as Hayes capped a 53-yard drive with a 3-yard run just over three minutes into the game, but after the Bearcats stopped Montgomery and appeared to be driving, Indian Jordan Nester picked off a Seth Carmichael pass and went 48 yards untouched to tie things.

But after Montgomery recovered an onside kick, the Bearcats held again, then scored in just three plays, with Kelly fighting his way to the end zone from six yards to make it 14-7.

"That was very important for our confidence," said Fitzpatrick. "After they had scored, Coach Peach just told us not to hang our heads."

Carmichael, the state's leading passer in Class 5A, completed 11 of 17 passes for 247 yards and a pair of second quarter touchdowns covering 72 and 26 yards to Kelly, making it 28-7.

"It was a perfect throw," Kelly said of his first touchdown reception. "It really wasn't anything I did. Seth made a perfect throw and Coach Peach called the perfect play."

The second scoring toss, coming 29 seconds before halftime, was a microcosm of what Anderson did all night. On fourth-and-15 from the 26, Montgomery tipped Carmichael's pass at the goal line. It floated right to an open Kelly. It capped a 99-yard march after Montgomery's Matt Tuttle had seemingly pinned the Bearcats with a punt that went dead at the Anderson 1.

But Anderson methodically marched the length of the field and, for all practical purposes, could start getting ready for the regional final.

Not that the Bearcats had any doubt.

They were ready even before kickoff last Friday, according to Fitzpatrick.

"We were just so excited," he said. "We wanted to play for the regional championship."

Game Notes

The Bearcats paid tribute to America's servicemen as the game was played on Veterans Day.

Senior Chris Noble led the Bearcats onto the field waving a large American flag. Peach said it was his team's idea.

"That was about Veterans Day," he said. "Some of the kids wanted to honor our veterans."

"We have talked about the Band of Brothers all year and I have shared stories from the Civil War with them."

Carmichael has now thrown for 2,764 yards and 35 touchdowns this year, both marks setting school records. He is also completing better than 65 percent of his passes and has a passer efficiency rating of 205.3.

Kelly now has 2,843 all-purpose yards in 12 games. Broken down, he has 1,363 rushing yards, 1,050 receiving yards, 346 on kick returns and 84 yards in interception returns.

and sophomore Jesse McKeehan give the Cougars many weapons. McKeehan ran over Franklin for 251 yards and three touchdowns while Barker put up 219 yards and four scores. Fogle and Levesy both went over 100 yards as well.

Conner coach Dave Trosper saw his team get better each week.

"We are a young football team and we have played a very tough schedule," he said in an e-mail.

"We kept telling our players to keep concentrating on the little things and working to get better each week."

"I give all the credit to them for their hard work and determination."

Against Franklin, Conner ripped off seven scoring runs over 20 yards, four of which went for over 40 yards.

The Cougars also surprised Franklin with a successful onside kick in the second quarter.

"We must be on our toes, they will fake punt from anywhere on the field, they will go for it on fourth down and more than five (yards to go) from anywhere on the field, they will onside kick it at any point in time, I think you get the picture," Peach said.

While Conner only sports a 7-5 record and was the No. 2 seed in District 5, the Cougars have plenty of tradition.

Conner won a state Class AAA title in 1983 when there were only four classes. The program was also AAA state runner-up three years before.

In addition, Conner was regional runner-up in 1993 and 1996.

Trosper says that tradition has come into play this year. "I attribute our performance to our players hard work and commitment to Conner football," Trosper said. "We talk about being the total player, in the classroom, in the community and on the football field and our players continue to work at those things."

While Conner finished the regular season at 5-5, the Cougars lost to a pair of teams - Covington Catholic and Boone County - that are still alive in the playoffs. The Cougars also lost to Dixie Heights, which was led by quarterback Zeke Pike, an Auburn recruit.

Heading into Friday's contest, the coaches have a mutual admiration society, perhaps because the programs are very similar in 2011.

Getting there

Getting to Conner High School is not difficult, according to Cougar head football coach Dave Trosper. Just get on I-75 north at Lexington or Georgetown and take it all the way to I-275 west, toward the Cincinnati airport.

Go to the second Hebron exit, take a right off the exit and stay on that road. After you pass a Kroger on the right, Cougar Path will be on the left. Take Cougar Path to Conner High School at 3310 Cougar Path.

son," Trosper said. "We have the utmost respect for Anderson County and everyone involved."

As for Peach, he says that for Anderson to bring home its first regional title, the formula is simple. "It is cliché, but you have to be fundamentally sound in blocking, tackling, executing and you must protect the football," he said.

Game notes

Peach and Trosper became friends when they coached together at the Kentucky-Tennessee Border Bowl, held at the University of the Cumberland, two years ago. "He is an excellent coach," Peach said.

Friday's game will be the first ever between Anderson County and Conner.

This will be Anderson County's fourth trip to the regional championship game. Anderson lost to Richmond Madison in 1972, Danville in 1987 and to John Hardin last year.

A win for Anderson would tie this year's senior class with last year's for the most wins in a four-year career.

The Class of 2012 has been victorious 35 times. A win would also equal the 11 wins of the 2007 season for most in one year. The Bearcats have already set the standard for most wins in a three-year span with 28.

Conner High School was formed in 1970.

The school is named for the Conner family, of Boone County, which donated the land on which the school is built.

urday. Dillow turned in a time of 18:17.37, falling 23 seconds off his time from a year ago.

Dillow said his stomach was cramping during the race and during the first two miles, he got bumped some in the field of 230 runners.

He had appeared to be well positioned to make a run for his goal at the first mile, but looked to be hemmed in from making a move as the runners moved over a hill and out of sight from the finish line area.

Dillow finished 2:17 behind the champion, Connor Sheryak of St. Xavier.

"I thought he did well," Anderson coach Scott Ellis said of Dillow's race. "It was a thick field and there were a lot of athletes out there."

"He's a little disappointed but he has qualified for the state all four years in high school. That is a good goal. Our region is very competitive."

Dillow, who will be shooting for his fourth state bid in wrestling this winter, said he hopes to continue his running career in college, but is unsure where. Some of the smaller in-state colleges have been recruiting him.

join club teams in Frankfort, Versailles, Harrodsburg, or other nearby towns to train in the off-season.

"I think I understand where they are," says Phillips, who graduated from Asbury University. "When I started swimming (competitively), I didn't understand some of the terminology. Now, when I say something and they don't understand, I think, 'I get it.'"

The Anderson team currently has 12 girls and seven boys training for their first meet, to be held this Saturday, Nov.

19, at Russell County. She says several of the swimmers could make a splash at the regional meet in February and possibly compete for the program's first state berth.

Senior Braden Peyton has been competitive in the past and could be a very strong in the freestyle and backstroke in his final campaign. A year ago, Peyton finished sixth in the 100-yard freestyle in the regional meet. It is believed Peyton's finish is the highest for any Anderson swimmer at the regionals.

He also made the 50-yard freestyle final at the regional.

Sophomore James

Mason has an abundance of potential. "He could be amazing. He swims everything for us," says Phillips, who made several regional finals as a high school swimmer. Mason just missed the 200-yard individual final at the regional meet last year.

As a team, the Anderson boys scored 26 points at the regional last year.

On the girls' side, Phillips says senior Lindsay Gray should turn in some good times in the breaststroke while sophomore Kylie Gehefer had several strong showings as a breaststroke specialist a year ago.

Senior Taylor Venturini also has a competitive streak that seems to shine when in a race, according to Phillips.

Phillips adds, "We have middle school kids showing some promise."

For the most part, Anderson will focus on getting better and improving times. And Phillips takes a hands-on approach. "I try to get in the pool some and do some teaching there," she says.

While Phillips is learning the ropes of being a high school coach, she says she has coached at the club level, leading younger swimmers at Falling Springs pool in Versailles. She has also taught swimming lessons at that facility.

Anderson has struggled to be competitive as a team in a region that includes 33 schools. However, none of the big city schools are included in a grouping that runs from Woodford County all the way to Russell County and Adair County to the southwest. A year ago, Woodford won the boys' and girls' regional titles. Elizabethtown gave Woodford a challenge for the girls' title but Woodford won the boys' crown by a wide margin over Danville.

"Woodford has had a team forever and they have a home pool," Phillips says of Falling Springs.

And with no home water, Anderson shares the Kentucky State University pool with the university and the three high schools in Franklin County. "That is frustrating," she smiles.

Just like it was eight years ago.

GOOD SHOT

Hannah Corbin, 9, shows off her first deer on youth hunt weekend. She is a third grade student at Saffell Street Elementary School and is a daughter of Joel and Marlena Corbin.

Vension, the original local, free-range red meat

From staff reports

November is when most hunters "put up" their winter's supply of venison. A review of Telecheck records reveals that last deer season hunters bagged 80,516 deer in November, about 73 percent of the entire season's harvest of 110,376.

Venison as tablefare is unmatched. It's the original local, free-range red meat with fewer calories than beef or pork and less cholesterol than chicken.

The USDA Nutrient Data Laboratory reports that a serving of three ounces of venison has 133 calories and only about 7 grams of fat. This includes more than four grams of monounsaturated fats, which can help lower bad cholesterol levels and reduce the risk of heart disease and stroke if eaten in moderation, according to the American Heart Association.

Venison is a good source of protein as well as vitamins B12, B6, B3, B2 and trace minerals such as phosphorous, selenium, zinc and iron. Deer in the wild are also free of the growth hormones and antibiotics that commercial beef cattle typically receive when they are fed corn and other grains while being "finished" in feed lots.

Proper care of a deer in the field will ensure good-tasting venison.

Field dress the deer immediately and rinse out the body cavity. Deer hunters who are camping or are driving home after hunting should take along several gallons of clean water for this purpose. Hunters who are able to bring their deer back to the house within minutes of it being field dressed should hang up their deer and rinse out the body cavity with a high-pressure nozzle on a garden hose.

It's OK to hang a deer overnight with the skin on if the air temperature is below 50 degrees. If the temperature overnight will rise above 50 degrees, the deer must be skinned and butchered immediately.

The best cut of meat on a deer is the tenderloin: long, tender muscles inside the chest cavity.

The second best cut is arguably the backstrap: long, round strips of meat along both sides of the backbone, just above the ribs. The deer's hams are meaty, but tougher. The hams are typically cut into roasts and steaks, ground into burger or cut into chunks for soup or stew.

The shoulders, if not too badly damaged by bullets or arrows, are typically kept whole for the BBQ grill. The best advice is to de-bone all cuts of venison and remove all the fat. Never saw through bones because it spreads marrow across the surface of the meat, which gives venison a gamey taste.

Here's a tip for better burger. Chunks of venison that are going to be ground up should be lightly salted, covered in water, and refrigerated overnight. The light salting draws out any blood and strong taste in the meat.

Apply now for sandhill crane quota hunt

From staff reports

Kentucky's first sandhill crane hunting season will open soon, and hunters can apply for permits through Nov. 30, according to a news release from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife.

The drawing is scheduled for Dec. 5.

Applications are only available online at the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources website, www.fw.ky.gov.

Each application costs $3 and a hunter may only apply once, the news release said.

The department will use a random computer drawing to select up to 400 hunters.

Applicants must have a valid Kentucky hunting license or be license-exempt at the time of application.

Results will be available to individual applicants online following the drawing.

The hunting season for sandhill cranes will begin Dec. 17 and continue through Jan. 15, 2012, or until hunters take 400 cranes, whichever comes first.

Successful applicants must complete and pass an online identification exam before receiving a permit.

Each permitted hunter may take up to two sandhill cranes.

Hunters must use the departments Telecheck system to register each crane on the day the bird is taken.

Hunters will also be required to monitor the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website daily for notices of season closure and notifications of the presence of whooping cranes in Kentucky, the news release said.

For additional information, visit the departments website, or call the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Information Center at 800-858-1549 during normal weekday working hours.

MASTER
COMMISSIONER'S SALE
In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson
Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, November 17, 2011, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):
(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days.

In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner.
The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.
(2) PLEASE NOTE:
The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO
ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes,
whether current or delinquent.
(3) Where the real estate has insurable
improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner

or the appropriate Plaintiff.
Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.
(4) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

That's how many Kentuckians, on average,
read each copy of a newspaper.

You see, one reads it, then passes it on.
Then another reads it and passes it on.
And so forth.

So if you're trying to reach Kentuckians, advertise in the newspaper.

Pass it on.
